Shoreline Lake to Host Victorian Sailboat Rides & More – Corsets Welcome

Shoreline Lake Aquatic Center & Café partner with historic Rengstorff House in the City of Mountain View's first annual 4th of July Victorian Fashion Promenade

Mountain View, CA. June 28, 2010 – Silicon Shores Corporation announced today it has partnered with Shoreline at Mountain View's historic Rengstorff House as one of the on-site businesses providing event-related activities and concessions during the City of Mountain View's first annual 4th of July Victorian Fashion Promenade.

Strolling...Fashion...Entertainment...Fun! is the theme for this first-ever special event designed to highlight a local historical gem and the popularity of Victorian/Edwardian fashion, and to give July 4th at the 750-acre wildlife and recreation area an ambiance not likely to be found anywhere else in the Bay Area.

"We jumped at the chance to partner with the City once again, and with Rengstorff House in particular, as this type of event falls right in line with our goal of creating an urban oasis in Silicon Valley," says Christina Ferrari, President of Silicon Shores, which runs the Aquatic Center and the Lakeside Café through a leasing partnership with the City. "An opportunity like this is a unique way to help showcase the natural beauty and the amenities available in the park."

In due style, the Aquatic Center and Café will be hosting, among other activities, sailboat rides with a Victorian-era skipper (dressed in appropriate costume, of course), and will also act as "picnic central" by providing their ever-popular prepared picnic baskets, along with special Victorian-themed desserts, as well as other treats in keeping with the event and holiday.

"Corsets and top hats are welcome, but not required to take part in the sailboat rides or any of the other activities here or at Rengstorff House," says Ferrari with a smile and a wink. "We want people to enjoy themselves, and if they do that with a bit of cheeky fun, all the better. If not, we have other more 'traditional' Fourth of July activities available to them."

Although no requirement exists to do anything other than enjoy the view and take in the tranquility, the Aquatic Center will have an assortment of water sports equipment available for rent, and also rents bicycles and tandem bikes and provides safety helmets free of charge for anyone wanting to stay on land. The Café will also be operating in full swing, providing its seasonally-based menu.

More detailed information about the Promenade, the current Victorian Fashion Exhibit at Rengstorff House and timeline for the day's activities, held between 1-5pm, can be found under News Details at the City of Mountain View's website.
